BEGINNER GARDENING TIPS

01 Choose a Location

Choosing the right location for your home garden is the most crucial part of learning how to start a garden. It would be best if you opt for a location that gets the right amount of sunlight throughout the day and has a vast area where many of your plants and trees would get planted.

02 Seeds

Choose the Right Seeds move to the most exciting part. For learning how to grow a tree, you should put healthy seeds in the soil so that they develop into healthy plants. For planting seeds dig them three times deep from the surface of the soil.

03 Tools

To learn how to plant a plant you should invest in excellent quality farming tools so that your dream of a perfect garden is accomplished.

04 Water

Watering them every day or once in two days is very much required unless your plants will die. Try to keep away pigeons or crows away from your plants by building a railing over them. Overwatering can be wrong, and you must know the properties of your plant.

05 Nurture with organic fertilizers

"The fertilizer is the gardener's best friend." Make your own organic fertilizer to give your plants the extra boost to grow. Start with compost - organic material that can be added to your garden to help your plants grow.
